

SGX has responded to Mr Tng Kim Bock's article to The Straits Times Forum Page 30th July 2022, requesting for a waiver of the $30 monthly market depth fee imposed in July 2022. Sadly, they have indicated that the $30 market depth fee will not be waived.

The Society of Remisiers (Singapore) humbly request SGX to reconsider it's decision as the market is already quite lacklustre. By imposing this market depth Fee, it will only exacerbate the situation & dissuade more of the Retail Investors from participating in the Singapore market.

The removal of the market depth fee by SGX is not a sign of weakness but shows strength on SGX part as it will indicate it listens & acts to constructive feedback.

SGX, your positive action please? Thank you.

Replies

SGX • A range of securities market and trading information available at no charge

e n

SGX Group has always provided a range of securities market and trading information at no charge to empower investors in their decision making (SGX must not lose sight of duty in pursuit of profits, July 30).
These include publicly available

stock prices, company announcements, research content, market reports and analytical tools which are accessible via our website, mobile app, SGX Investor Portal, SGX Academy and our social media platforms.

We continue to invest in these areas to widen distribution and access for investors.

Like all global exchanges, more advanced market depth data has always been provided through SGX Group's channel partners such as brokers and data vendors at a fee. We have been working with broker firms periodically on promotional campaigns offering discounted access to advanced market data in conjunction with educational programmes. The most recent campaign ended in June.

We will continue to work in collaboration with the securities market ecosystem to provide other programmes in future.

Joyce Tan
Vice-President
Data, Connectivity and Indices
SGX Group